Respected Madam,
Reference your Adv. Asking for comments regarding skilled migration, I may add the following,

For the speedy economic growth of Australia, the skilled migration may have to be doubled.

There are some cases known to me where they have all the points for the skilled migration but their applications are refused on the ground that though they have applied through their countries but from Australia their migration zone. It is suggested such skilled force may be allowed to migrate waiving the technical hitch as stated above. This will facilitate for more migration of skilled force in Australia.

With Best Regards,
Michael Joseph
